Thalita had some difficulties in the 4th quarter but overall she did fine and she passed to the 8th year of primary education. Her home situation is calm and the parents live separately. Thalita now enjoys her long summer holidays and returns to school beginning of February.

Tropical Trump, as the new president Jair Bolsonaro is called, has already begun to have an impact on Brazil's politics. Indigenous people will lose their territories and the Amazon rain forest will be in serious danger. Leftish thinkers in the parliament are being ousted from their jobs and any opposition is being bullied (through Twitter and TV). Police forces have "carte blanche" to shoot any person in the slums who is carrying a weapon or who is considered a suspect. People in the slums therefore are very worried that also innocents could be targeted. Lets hope that things do not worsen further for the population.

Thank you very much for supporting young Thalita.
